LAW'S FIELD GOALS WIN

PRINCETON, Oct. 10 .- The preliminary reports of the strength of the Syracuse football team were justified this afternoon. It brought to Princeton one of the best elevens that has played here in some time and it required every ounce of energy in ers Princeton team to emerge at the large end of a 12 to 7 score. The visitors outplayed the Tigers in almost every de partment of the game, in spite of the Signard that the Orange and Black showed nore real class than at any other time redit.

Statistics show that Syracuse outrushed Princeton by a total of 300 yards to 180 yards, and on the forward passes she gained eighty yards, as compared with sixty yards for the Tigers. The punting was the only branch of the game in which Princeton held its own. Law's punts were better than Wilkerson's and he gained a total of forty yards more, which meant a gain of about two yards on each exchange of kicks.

One of Law's spirals had a carry One of Law's spirals had a carry of fifty yards and it rolled for twenty more. Both teams suffered heavily in penalties, Syracuse losing fifty yards while Princeton lost sixty, half of which was a penalty for roughness, and the distance between the ball and the goal was halved. It also had a penalty of fifteen yards for having twelve men on the field of play. Princeton's centre trio, which has been a little weak, did creditably to-day. Tare is no gloom in Tigertown over the closeness of the result. On the contrary, every one, including the coaches, seems to be well pleased over the way the team fought. The line held especially well considering the fact that the opponents averaged 182 pounds. When Syraeuse had a running attack which waried its touchdown it required seven close made its louchdown it required seven close made its louchdown it required seven close made its louchdown at three linches.

Syraeuse had a running attack which waried its tactics from a close line smashing game to the wide open formations with the forward pass, and was equally good in both branches. It had splential interference, handled the ball cleanly and followed it closely. Its linemen charged to ward took care of their men. The backs were heavy, fast and aggressive and all told, it made a combination that was hard to beat, and Princeton deserves credit.

Statistics show that Syracuse outrushed.

forward throw was good for at least 15 yards. The New York team's playing lacked speed, although several of the visitors won his first game as captain of the Johns when Dave Dunn interrupted a pass for Fordham.

Fordham weakness lay in the light line, which has a deplorable tendency for evelagh tackling. The New York team's playing lacked speed, although several of the visitors showed up creditably. Whener in particular played a good game in the line, while McNally and Bernstein acquirted themselves favorably in the back field.

FUMBLING MARKS CONTEST

CLINTON, N. Y., Oct. 10,-In a contest lacking speed, probably due to the excessive humidity, the New York University team defeated Hamilton, 26 to 0, here to-day.

Fumbling characterized the game throughout the first half. The New York. ers lost two touchdowns because of fu bling by the back field when the ball was only a few yards from the goal line. The first tally was made within five minutes of play, when Huntley ran seventy yards through a broken field for a touchdown In neither this period nor the second was anything further added to the score.

The local eleven never threatened the New York goal and succeeded in making only four first downs. The Hamiltonians used the old style mass play and selde resorted to the forward pass. New York University was successful in six forward passes of ten attempts. Several rurs by Laforce, Hamilton's captain, were the only distinguishing features of the local playing. With the ball on the V yard line the Hamilton eleven lost its onl opportunity of scoring when L failed to boot the ball over the bar
